

Assignment: Master Linux File Navigation

Answer in simple words. Focus on basic concepts of Linux access and file system navigation.

1. What is root user in Linux?

Answer: Root user is the main user who has full control over the system.

2. What is a file system in Linux?

Answer: File system is the way files and directories are organized in Linux.

3. What is the difference between absolute and relative path?

Answer: Absolute path starts from root, while relative path starts from current location.

4. What is the use of ls command?

Answer: It is used to view files and directories.

5. What is the difference between file and directory?

Answer: File stores data, while directory stores files.